“Chamber Chat” Will Help Employers Deal With Wellness Issues

Among the many challenges created for businesses by Covid-19 are those which threaten employee health. To bring specific health issues to the forefront, the Chamber’s Workplace Wellness Committee will debut a new initiative called “Chamber Chat,” which will provide periodic Zoom programs with expert presenters and the opportunity for attendees to ask questions and share best practices. The first of seven “Chats” will take place on September 25th from 8:30 to 9:00 a.m. “We’ve limited them to a half-hour so that employers and employees can gain some good insight without tying-up a significant amount of work time,” explained Phyllis Baker of Blair Regional YMCA, who co-chairs the committee with Courtney Seidel of Stiffler McGraw. “There is no cost to participate.” Among the six topics will be: Mental Wellness, Exercise, Employee Assistance, Nutrition, Insurance and Attitude. The dates of the Chamber Chats are: September 25th, October 9th and 23rd, November 6th and 20th and December 4th and 18th. The program will begin its fifth year in October and the application process for interested students has already begun. To apply, go to the Chamber Website at www.blair-chamber.com and click on “Events and Programs.”
